

Abstract of the Disclosure:

First, two subsystems are connected with each other via a communication cable and then recognize physical connection between the two subsystems. Next, each one of the two subsystems ignores signals from the other subsystem for a predetermined time period after recognition of the physical connection. Then, the two subsystems execute the connection procedure and after that, establish data communication between the two subsystems.

0954121-051104
FOI 50 1275860